

MIDWIFERY EMPLOYMENT

The Regina Qu'Appelle Health Region is seeking additional midwives to join the midwifery team in Regina, Saskatchewan. The midwives currently practicing in Regina are committed to building the practice to ensure midwifery services are better able to meet the growing interest in the community. Both new and general registrants are welcome to apply.

The Regina Midwives are employees of the Regina Qu'Appelle Health Region. As such, they are well integrated into the medical system and enjoy positive working relationships with their nursing and obstetrical colleagues. They are privileged at the Regina General Hospital and have a newly renovated clinic space in close driving distance to the hospital. They strongly value teamwork and strive to provide a positive and supportive work environment. Apply today!

Reporting to the Primary Health Care Network Manager, the midwife works collaboratively with other professionals on a multi-disciplinary health care team that provides effective, comprehensive services to childbearing women and their families. The midwife is a person who has acquired the requisite qualifications to be registered and/or legally licensed to practice midwifery in Saskatchewan.

Relocation assistance and New Graduate Bursaries are available.
